Cheyenne Little Theatre performance shines

To Cheyenne Little Theatre's production of "High School Musical."

After seeing a sold-out matinee of the production Sunday, it's apparent that a lot of hard work and dedication went into the production.

Preston Powis as Troy Bolton and Marissa Mohr as Gabriella Montez have surprisingly good voices that were just as good as the Disney TV production, and their acting and vocal abilities really carried the show.

Not a single actor in the cast forgot their lines. Their choreography was in sync, and the entire cast of the show really worked well together as an ensemble.

Overall, the show was entertaining for all ages.

Everyone from the actors, directors all the way down to the stage crew deserves a huge Thumbs Up.

This show is a prime example of the young talent that Cheyenne is lucky to have.
